New Frontiers Entrepreneur Development Programme

New Frontiers is Enterprise Ireland’s National Entrepreneurs Development Programme for early stage startups.

Based in 14 incubation centres across the country, each year, we support 150 startups from a range of sectors including food, bio, engineering, and technology.
About the Programme

State Funding Access: Enterprise Ireland is a chief source of funding for Irish Startups. The New Frontiers Programme gives founders access to some chief decision makers in the business development process as well as €15,000 for Phase 2 participants.

Geographic Accessibility: New Frontiers has 14 centres across Ireland. Most other programmes are solely Dublin based.

Equity Taken: Other programmes take at least 7.5% of the participant’s company. New Frontiers takes 0%.

Campus Expertise: New Frontiers participants have access to campus expertise and R&D facilities that the colleges offer.

Diversity of Participant Companies: Most private startup programmes are in the tech sector and focus exclusively on internet companies. New Frontiers takes startups from all industries.

The New Frontiers Programme has launched a Blog! It will offer interesting and useful content to people in the Irish startup community from experts all around the country. Check it out at www.newfrontiers.ie

Crowdsight is a mobile sponsorship platform for venues that aims to capture fan generated content at live events and reward fans through sponsored prizes for these content uploads. Crowdsight capitalises on existing fan behaviour of sharing photos/text at events via traditional social media channels, and aims to interrupt the direct sharing of content and capture users and content in our app before they are synced with traditional social media.

www.ConnectClans.com will give individuals the opportunity to build their present day family tree in just a few minutes, by utilising their family connections on Facebook. They simply ‘permission in’ through Facebook and our software will access their contacts and ‘serve’ them up in a way that allows the user to ‘flag’ and categorise them quickly and efficiently.
DESCRIPTION OF COMPANY

77% of all car sales in Ireland are initiated over the internet. In this context, trust is a huge issue for buyers as they have to make assessments of cars with very little information to hand. The seller has a problem too, they must make their car stand out amongst the hundreds/thousands of other ads if they are to sell and get value from it. TrustHub has developed a world-first process to solve both of these problems. We totally eliminate the problem of stolen or otherwise untrustworthy cars and make private sales safer for all.
