New Frontiers
Ireland’s National Entrepreneur Development Programme

Delivered at local level by Institutes of Technology and funded by Enterprise Ireland, New Frontiers is Ireland’s National Entrepreneur Development Programme for early start-ups.

If you have an innovative business idea and are planning to establish and run your own company, the New Frontiers Programme can provide you with help and support to accelerate your business development and to equip you with the skills and contacts that you need to successfully start and grow your company.

Based in 14 incubation centres across the country, we support 150 start-ups each year from a range of sectors including bio, engineering, food, and technology.

About the Programme

State Funding Access: Enterprise Ireland is a chief source of funding for Irish start-ups. The New Frontiers Programme gives founders access to some chief decision makers in the business development process as well as €15,000 for Phase 2 participants.

Geographic Accessibility: New Frontiers has 14 centres across Ireland. Most other programmes are based solely in Dublin.

Equity Taken: Other programmes take at least 7.5% of the participant’s company. New Frontiers takes 0%.

Campus Expertise: New Frontiers participants have access to campus expertise and R&D facilities that the institutes offer.

Diversity of Participant Companies: Most private start-up programmes are in the tech sector and focus exclusively on internet companies. New Frontiers takes start-ups from all industries.
